Madison OKs plant application

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The siting application for the proposed $75 million wood-to-energy plant in Madison was approved by the city council Monday evening.

At a special meeting, the council voted unanimously on several motions, including one to accept the findings — with a slight exception — of hearing officer Charles King, an Edwardsville attorney.

The council also voted to reserve the right to impose conditions on the siting necessary to protect the health and welfare of neighboring communities.

Mayor John Bellcoff said he was pleased by the council's decision.

"I think the council members did a lot of background study and researched the findings of the hearing officers," he said.

When completed, Bellcoff added, the plant will have a major impact on the city and its residents.

"You take a $100 million plant, it will add to the coffers of the city, as well as Nameoki Township," he said.

Developers have said the plant could cost between $60-$120 million to build.

The plant has bee proposed by Metro East LLC, a subsidiary of Connecticut-based STRV LLC. It would burn waste wood and coal to produce electrical energy.

Siting approval is the first step toward construction of the plant, which would employ approximately 200 construction and 40 full-time workers.

After the siting approval, in about 10-12 months the developers will have another hearing before the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. If successful, it would take about two years to build and test the plant.

Alderman John Hamm, chairman of the council's Finance Committee, said it could mean a massive cut in property taxes.

"If they are telling us there will be $800,000 in new revenue to the community, there is a good possibility it will reduce our taxes by half," he said. "Any way we can reduce taxes but still keep the services to the community, we need to

OATH tourney is Oct. 6

Those with developmental disabilities are often overlooked for employment because of a perception that they are unable to perform duties capably.

But for nearly two decades, a Madison not-for-profit group has provided employment for developmentally disabled adults, putting them to work washing, drying, assembling or packaging items for local industry.

The goal of OATH Inc. (Organization for Advancement of the Handicapped) is to train workers so that they may eventually find employment in the mainstream of society, according to Sharon Varady, executive director.

OATH operates a sheltered workshop at Seventh and State streets in Madison, where developmentally disabled adults perform paid work functions and also hold social functions throughout the year.

And while many of the jobs performed by OATH clients provide revenue for the organization, private donations are important to OATH as well, Varady said.

OATH will conduct its sixth annual Charity Golf Tournament on Friday, Oct. 6, at Arlington Golf Course.

Entry fee for the four-person scramble event is $35 per person, which includes beverages, cart, dinner and attendance prizes. Golfers will pay greens fees at the course. Teams of four

Adult businesses targeted

Adult entertainment businesses in unincorporated parts of Madison County would come under tight restrictions if a proposed county ordinance is adopted.

Two County Board committees have endorsed the proposal, which is expected to be presented to the full County Board for possible action Wednesday, today.

The proposed code could block a second adults-only business planned at an intersection in rural Pin Oak Township.

Pin Oak residents began picketing at Soft Touch, an adults-only business at the intersection of Interstate 55 and Illinois 143, about two weeks ago after they learned that a similar business might open in the former Ackerman's Restaurant directly across Illinois 143.

Tighter county regulation "was our hope all the way through this," said Phyllis Fisher, one of the organizers of Citizens Against Porn. "I'll be more comfortable when it actually happens. We've been upset since the first one. That's why we're picketing."

Location restrictions and more specific requirements for a special-use permit could block plans by Nashville, Tenn., businessman Jerry Pendergrass to open an adults-only business in the former Ackerman's building.

Renovation of the former restaurant building is under way, and Pendergrass said last week he would open a business called I-55 Exit 23 Book Store by January. He could not be reached for comment last week about the proposed ordinance.

Dog is killed after biting Venice boy

By Scott Cousins

A four-year-old boy was hospitalized Friday after being bitten by a dog in Venice.

Venice police said they would discuss the case with the Madison County State's Attorney's office before deciding what charges the owner might face.

LeWayne Jones, 4, the son of Michelle Lott of Venice, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center and treated for bite wounds on his leg, buttocks and groin. He spent the night at the hospital for observation and was released the next day.

Lott said LeWayne was to see a doctor today (Wednesday) about plastic surgery.

The dog, described as a large mixed-breed, possibly part Rottweiler, was destroyed by police after several attempts to capture it. The dog's body was taken by Madison County Animal Control, and was sent to a lab Monday morning for a rabies test. Results will not be known for several days.

According to police reports, at about 7:30 p.m. LeWayne left his

Amisch new Madison health officer

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A former Madison alderman has been named the city's new health officer and head of the zoning board.

George Amisch replaces Larry Brinker as head of the zoning board, and Grover Brannon as health officer.

In his letter of resignation, Brinker cited other commitments as his reason for stepping down.

Brannon, who has been criticized by several aldermen at past council meetings, also submitted a letter of resignation.

Amisch, a retired teacher, is a former chairman of the zoning board, and was appointed in the late 1980s to fill the unexpired term of First Ward Alderman Jim Hillmer. Amisch was re-elected in 1989, and defeated by Eleanor Armour in 1993.

In a related action, the council approved an ordinance setting the salary of the city's health and humane officers.

The ordinance, approved on first reading, sets the salaries at $500 per month. That is a $100-per-month increase, and is retroactive to May 1.

In other business at last week's meeting, the council approved going ahead with five condemnations: 922 Jefferson St., 1511 Second St., 1431 and 1431A Third St., 204

Volunteers' work makes for safe play

SOUTH ROXANA — Residents came together to provide a safe playground for pupils of South Roxana Elementary School and other children in the village.

Local businesses, parents, teachers, community leaders and government officials joined in an all-out effort to replace old and unsafe equipment and renovate the school playground.

Their efforts bore fruit last week when the playground was opened.

Principal Marilyn Law said it has been a popular attraction during recess.

"After awhile, some will go back to their soccer and other activities, but right now (the playground) looks like a beehive with children swarming all over it."

In an appreciation ceremony last Tuesday, Law introduced the chairwomen of the fund-raising effort, Patty Wolfe and Julie Meyers, who are also on the executive board of the school's Parent-Teacher Organization.

Wolfe said the fund-raising group, called Project Playsafe, at first wanted only to replace the slide but later decided to tackle other equipment.

"We decided to dream big," Wolfe said. "We realized we would have to reach out to the community.

"The community responded with financial support, equipment and supplies and labor in the hottest summer in recent memory.

"What happened is significant," she said. "These were divergent groups who normally wouldn't be interacting."

Volunteers gave Wolfe much of the credit for pulling the project together.

"Barton Construction brought a backhoe, and RCS Construction a bulldozer, then Kienstra delivered concrete on Saturday," said David Moran, a parent volunteer and construction laborer. "And Patty Wolfe organized it all and was out there working, too. It was really hot."

Roxana Superintendent Jim Herndon also rolled up his sleeves on two consecutive Saturdays.

"I bolted a few things in place, lifted some stuff and did whatever I was told," Herndon said. "It was a good opportunity to get to know some of the parents."

Street department employees from South Roxana and Wood River pitched in to haul dirt and gravel to level the playground. "This meets the Americans with Disabilities Act requirements for safety with a cushioning effect," Law said.

Businesses pitched in to pay for everything. Total cost of the renovation was about $30,000.

"The school district had set aside $5,500 to reseal the playground," Meyers said. "Shell Oil paid for that, freeing up the money to use in the project."

The new equipment is metal with a half-inch-thick coating of synthetic material project."

The new equipment is metal with a half-inch-thick coating of synthetic material to provide a cushion and eliminate rough edges.

The centerpiece of the playground is a red, blue and gold contraption with four levels of platforms, towers, slides, bouncing bridges, steps, ladders and coils.

"It's cool," Kawliga Leverett, 10, said Tuesday. "It's bad," added Andy Harris, 9, echoing Kawliga's sentiment.

Dozens of other residents and businesses contributed to the renovation project, officials said.

6 face drug, weapon charges

Six people were arrested on various charges during a drug and weapon sweep through Brooklyn, Venice and Madison last week.

Police also confiscated 19 grams of cocaine and 100 grams of marijuana. No weapons were found.

Officers from the Illinois State Police, the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, the U.S. Marshals' Office, Illinois Department of Corrections and Madison Police Department conducted the sweep Thursday evening from about 4 p.m. to midnight.

"It's just something that we've been doing periodically," a spokesman for the Illinois State Police said.

The names and specific charges against the six arrested were not available.

A search for help for youth

Meeting to focus on coordination of after-school programs

productive

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Representatives from more than 20 different groups will meet at Madison Middle School next week to discuss ways to better serve area youths during the non-school hours.

The meeting — a panel discussion including athletic, social service and industry representatives — will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 27, at the school's media center.

The public is invited, but seating may be limited.

Principal Raelynn Parks said she hopes to use the meeting to coordinate between various groups and provide better and more efficient activities and services.

She got the idea while attending a graduate class.

As part of an assignment, she studied community resources, including a Carnegie Foundation report, "Risk and Opportunity — the Non-School Hours."

"A lot of time the only thing kids have to do is sit in front of the television or get out into the street and get into trouble," she said.

In the past year, the middle school has offered numerous after-school activities, and more are planned for this year.

By joining together, she said, the school and community groups could provide programs that compliment each other and make resources available.

"A lot of these groups don't have a place to hold meetings," Parks said.

As another an example, she said the Katherine Dunham Center for the Performing Arts at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was holding auditions for students to participate in dance scholarships at the school. One of the requirements is that students provide their own transportation.

Parks said another group might be able to help provide that transportation, making it possible for more Madison students to participate.

She said the school is also in the process of developing a Student Assistance Program with Piasa Health Care.

The program will help identify students with problems, and help parents develop a plan to deal with the problem or refer the student to the proper social agencies.

"The basic idea is all of us are doing things with kids, but we're not connecting our resources," Parks said of the meeting. "How can we combine resources so we're not doing double duty."

New SIUE wing hits the right note

The halls were alive with the sound of music Thursday at the opening of the new music department wing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The $4.8 million addition and renovation to the Communications Building adds 13,200 square feet of space and consolidates the music offices. Previously, the department was spread throughout the Communications Building and four outlying tract houses.

"There is nothing like it in the entire metro area," SIUE President Nancy Belck said of the wing. "It adds 13,200 square feet of first-class space. The price tag may not be one of our largest projects, but what it encompasses makes it important. It has been a dream for 20 years."

Construction began 16 months ago and was completed a semester early, Belck said. The university's information technology unit and University Theater stage and auditorium in the Communications Building also were renovated.

SIU Chancellor Ted Sanders, members of the Board of Trustees and about 100 others attended the ceremony.

"This shows the importance of music to a well-rounded education," Sanders said. "In difficult financial times, these are the types of programs that are cut. The new music facilities clearly demonstrate the importance of the arts, especially music."

The student chorus, a saxophone quartet, a brass quintet and a jazz group performed as visitors toured the cluster of rooms.

Ronald Abraham, chairman of the music department, noted that none of the rooms has square corners and all have hanging diffusion panels on the ceiling for better sound.

The rooms are grouped around a centrally located state-of-the-art recording studio. Rick Haydon, coordinator of the studio, said the 16-track recording equipment will be updated to 24 tracks.

"Ultimately this is for student use," Haydon said. "Hopefully, we can begin a program in electronic arts based on multimedia."

A great place to shop for Halloween Decor by the experts at FRANK'S®

Planning on hosting or attending a big, festive Halloween party this year? Maybe you're thinking of decking out your home with some exciting, frightening decor. Either way, Frank's has what you need.

New at the Frank's stores this year is Halloween Headquarters, and it contains a fantastic selection of items appropriate for the season. You'll find costumes, masks, make-up and much more. There are hundreds of items in all.

Halloween isn't exactly just around the corner, it's over five weeks away. But those who plan ahead come out ahead. To be assured of the best selection and getting the perfect item, it pays to plan and shop early. Like now.

What surprises await you at Halloween Headquarters? Plenty. Festive and spooky decorations, for starters. You'll find witches, ghosts, pumpkins, candles and dozens more to adorn your home.

When it comes to adorning yourself, it gets even more fun. Frank's has a super selection of costumes. The myriad of masks includes Dracula, the Mummy, a popping eye skull and more. And, of course, you'll find the most famous mask of all, a Frankenstein. Yes, it's commonly called that, but for those who insist on total accuracy, it should be pointed out that it's actually a mask of the nameless monster created by Dr. Frankenstein.

If you prefer a more comical touch, there's even a mask with a humorous caricature likeness of a very famous resident of Washington, D.C.

In case you're wondering about the origin of Halloween, we'll tell you. According to an encyclopedia we ran across, It is the name applied to the evening of October 31, preceding the Christian feast of Hallowmas, Allhallows, or All Saints' Day. The observances and ceremonies connected with it are believed to have originated with the ancient Druids, who believed that on that evening, Saman, the lord of the dead, called forth hosts of evil spirits. The Druids customarily lit great fires on Halloween, in hopes of warding off the spirits.

Among the ancient Celts, Halloween was the last evening of the year. They believed that the spirits of the dead revisited their earthly homes on that evening. The Celts also lit fires on Halloween, and that tradition survived until modern times in Scotland and Wales. The concept of ghosts and witches remained, and is still common to Halloween observances.

Some of the customs of the Romans survive today in both the U.S. and Great Britain. These include playing games involving fruit, such as bobbing for apples and the use of hollowed-out pumpkins carved to resemble faces.

So no matter how you plan on celebrating it this year, plan on visiting Frank's Halloween Headquarters first. Make this Halloween a truly memorable one.

Demand for cooling aid was great

Hundreds of low-income Madison County area families stayed cool this summer with help from a special state program.

Madison County Community Development Director Cheryl Jouett said demand for the program was unprecedented.

The Madison County agency received $258,912 from the state program, the first in several years to assist with cooling costs, after a blistering heat wave that started in July and lasted six weeks.

"We have never had the kind of response to any program ever like we had to this one," Jouett said.

She said the agency was flooded with 763 applications for assistance between Aug. 1 and Aug. 17, when no more could be accepted.

Jouett said she did not have final figures on how many households got help in paying electric bills to stay cool but she said the average grants were about $295.

In addition, program funds were used to purchase 17 air conditioners and seven fans for elderly individuals with illnesses that could be affected by the heat, she said.

Kustra brings campaign for Senate to Edwardsville

Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra vowed to eliminate government waste during a campaign stop in Edwardsville on Thursday.

Kustra, who formally announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate Sept. 12 in Chicago, was greeted by about 20 supporters. He called himself a new voice for Illinois that will work to build an economy that promotes job growth and economic prosperity.

Kustra, 52, is seeking the Republican nomination for the seat of retiring U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, a Democrat from Makanda.

State Reps. Ron Stevens, R-Troy, and Tom Ryder, R-Jerseyville, along with state Sen. Frank Watson, R-Greenville, were on hand to greet Kustra on the plaza between the Madison County Courthouse and the Administration Building.

Kustra, of Park Ridge, is in his second four-year term with Gov. Jim Edgar. He vowed Thursday to fight for a balanced federal budget and for reduced and simplified federal income taxes.

"I will take a vote to Washington which will not be used to increase the already confiscatory federal income taxes," he said. "It will be a vote to give the president the line-item veto to control spending. It will be a vote for term limits."

Kustra said it is time to scale back the size of the federal establishment and abolish federal agencies that he said no longer serve a purpose.

"One road is all too familiar to Americans," he said. "Along the way you will find a federal government too large, too bureaucratic and too insensitive to meet the needs of its people, a federal government with policies which have caused personal responsibility to leach from our culture."

Kustra said, if elected, he will speak out and work to reform the welfare system to stop the multigenerational cycle of dependence. He said he would support efforts to dismantle the departments of Education, Commerce and Energy so their functions can be either abolished or assumed by individual states.

U.S. Rep. Dick Durbin, D-Springfield, has announced his candidacy for Simon's seat. Former U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon endorsed Durbin last week. Other Democrats running are former state Treasurer Patrick Quinn and lesser-known candidates Paul Park, Ron Gibbs and Jalil Ahmad. Other Republicans who have either declared or expressed interest in running include Robert Marshall, a Burr Ridge radiologist, and state Rep. Al Salvi of Wauconda.

Water bill payment hours expanded

Illinois-American Water Co. is now offering extended hours for paying water bills at authorized payment centers located throughout the interurban service area.

Customers can now pay their water bills at a time that is most convenient for them and receive a valid Illinois-American Water Co. receipt. There is no charge to the customer for the bill payment service.

Some of the payment centers are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Each center will display a door decal authorizing it as an official water company payment center.

Company officials stressed the need for customers to bring in their entire bill when they pay to speed up the service. Payments may be paid by cash, check or money order. Customers also may pay their bill by mail or take advantage of the company's popular Xpress Cheque automated bill payment program.

Xpress Cheque works like any other direct deposit or direct payment program. When customers sign up for Xpress Cheque they continue to receive bill notification, but their bank, savings and loan or credit union automatically pays their bill directly from their account on the date due.

The new extended hours payment service is just another example of how Illinois-American is finding ways to improve service, control costs and keep rates stable.

Customers are advised to watch their water bill for additional locations of payment centers.

Illinois-American extended hours payment centers are located in the following areas:

home and was walking to a neighbor's house. As LeWayne passed a house in the 1000 block of Douglas Street, the dog came out and attacked the child.

"I heard my son screaming and yelling, and when I got out there my sister was holding him and trying to get my son away from the dog," Lott said. "Mostly I was mad because the dog wouldn't let go."

Lot said she and her sister struggled with the dog — and Lott repeatedly hit it with a board — for several minutes before it released LeWayne and ran away.

After police arrived, they contacted the Madison humane officer to come for the dog, but according to reports, the officer refused.

At that time, someone described in police reports as the dog's "caretaker" attempted to capture it. The animal continued to elude them and a police officer finally killed it with two shotgun blasts.

The Franklin address was added over objections by several council members because the house was still being occupied. The council voted 3-3 with two abstentions, and Mayor John Bellcoff broke the tie in favor of condemnation.

The council also approved $600 for four police officers to attend conventions.

The council also approved a search for a new dog pound for the city. The city currently shares facilities with Venice, but there have been complaints about missing animals and other problems.

environmental director, said he hand-delivered a letter to a contractor on the site last Tuesday that advised that the business could not open without a special-use permit.

"They planned to finish this week," Parente said. "They were already bringing in stock."

Drafted by Assistant State's Attorney Michele Berkel, the proposed code was presented to the board's Land Use and Legislative committees at a joint meeting Wednesday.

Berkel told committee members the proposed rules are clearly within the county's authority to protect public health, safety and welfare. She said such businesses can promote crime and pose a threat to property values. Berkel said viewing booths and cubicles common in adults-only businesses can facilitate the spread of sexually transmitted diseases.

"These kinds of regulations have been tested in the federal courts — in some cases, all the way to the Supreme Court."

Berkel and county Director of Administration James Monday said the proposal is not directed at a particular business.

The law would apply to businesses where sexually explicit materials or conduct is a "substantial or significant" portion of its activity.

Regulations would prohibit such a business within 1,000 feet of a residence, school, day care facility or park. No adult business would be allowed within 1,000 feet of a similar business, a provision that could block the Pendergrass store.

Existing businesses in violation of the location restrictions could continue to operate but could not be enlarged, and the exemption would be lost if operations ceased for 180 days or more.

look into that."

Hamm said the council was also concerned about making sure the proposed plant did not harm anybody.

"I want to make sure we set up a set of guidelines that takes into consideration the community — noise pollution, or any hazard to their health and welfare," Hamm said.

Bellcoff agreed.

"We're concerned about the health and welfare of the citizens of Madison and the surrounding areas," he said. "We're not going to do anything that will jeopardize the health and safety of anybody."

The only part of the recommendation not accepted dealt with material submitted by the city of Wood River regarding its siting application proceedings for a similar plant.

In his 190-page report to the council, King recommended the application be approved.

King had spent much of the past weeks going over transcripts and evidence presented during four days of hearings in late July. The hearings generated more than 1,800 pages of testimony transcripts.

The council met in executive session for about an hour before voting on the report.

City Attorney Casper Nighohossian said the part of the report dealing with Wood River was excluded because it did not apply to the Madison site, or because specific requirements detailed in the information submitted by Wood River would be handled by state and federal regulatory agencies.

The siting proposal has been opposed by residents of the nearby Cloverleaf subdivision and local environmentalists.

Opponent Kathy Andrea attended Monday's meeting, and said she was not surprised by the outcome. She also said she was not sure exactly what the vote means because she has not seen the hearing officer's report.

That report was given to council members at last week's meeting, and was kept confidential until after Monday's meeting.

"I have no idea what they voted to do because I have no idea what they were referring to (in the report)," Andrea said. "I know they voted to site it, but I have no idea what conditions, if any, are imposed."

Andrea said she would have to examine the report.

Opponents have said if the plant was sited that they would file an appeal with the Illinois Pollution Control Board in Chicago.

Andrea said the group will appeal the decision, and have 35 days to file.

"I'm not surprised at the decision. I was expecting it and I'm anxious to get on to the next arena."

WOOD RIVER TOWNSHIP HOSPITAL COMMUNITY REPORT

President's report

Jerry Bolandis

A new direction for WRTH

Nearly one year ago, we launched a program to chart a new direction for Wood River Township Hospital. We set out to dramatically expand and improve the services we provide our community.

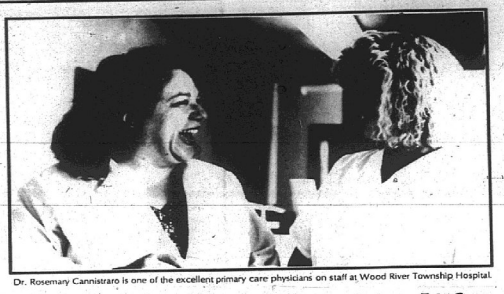
The most critical step we have taken has been to bring to this community high-quality services from St. Louis, including SSM Rehabilitation-- the largest provider of rehabilitation health care services in Missouri.

We also launched a partnership with St. Louis University which has brought to our hospital new cardiology, orthopedics and gastroenterology clinics.

Additionally, we have recruited some excellent physicians– for both adults and children– to the Madison County Health Center.

We have backed these new physicians with the latest technology and we have remodeled two of the Hospital's floors to make them more attractive for our patients.

Most important, we have listened to the community to offer the services you want. New doctors and new services have added up to a new direction for Wood River Township Hospital. We hope you agree.



Dr. Rosemary Cannistraro is one of the excellent primary care physicians on staff at Wood River Township Hospital.

Make a friend for life: choose a family doctor

One of the most important decisions you can make for your family's health care is to choose a family doctor.

When you establish a relationship with a physician, your doctor gets to know you, your family and your history. That personal connection allows him or her do a better job of helping you manage your health care.

Your doctor can assist you in making wellness, nutrition and lifestyle decisions that will lead to a healthier life.

In modern health care lingo, what used to be called a family doctor is now called a primary care physician. A primary care physician is simply the first doctor you call when you are sick. A primary care doctor will diagnose and treat general illnesses and will refer you to a specialist, if necessary.

Your doctor will serve as your guide and adviser when you seek other health care services. Dr. Robert Ayres, an experienced primary care physician in Glen Carbon, explained. "With the technology and complexity of health care these days, patients need an advocate."

Dr. Ayres also said that when patients choose a primary care physician, they will save money. "A primary care physician's charges for most routine health care matters are going to be less than a specialist's."

Additionally, seeing a doctor in his office or her for non-emergency health care services is much less expensive than going to an emergency room.

There are essentially four types of primary care doctors. For adults, primary care doctors are usually either general practice physicians, family practice physicians or internal medicine physicians– also called internists. For children, a pediatrician would be their primary care doctor.

Dr. Rosemary Cannistraro explained that she studied internal medicine because it allowed her to participate in the whole experience of medicine. "I didn't want to specialize. I like taking care of the whole person."

Dr. Ayres agreed. "The more personal relationship with a patient is the primary reason I chose family practice."

There are a number of excellent physicians on staff at Wood River Township Hospital. If you would like to be referred to a primary care physician, call 251-7197.

Remembering Cook's cheer with Big Red

One of the reasons I still believe in Santa Claus is because I've never met someone more capable of making such a lasting impression.

As a youngster you never forget that business of "naughty or nice" because there always seems to be a link between the nice and Santa.

As you grow older you learn something else about Santa — he's got more helpers than you'd ever realize — and when it comes to spreading peace on earth and good will toward men, Santa's friends do quite well, whether in or out of a red suit and white beard.

NO WONDER THEN why I was saddened by the Sept. 16 death of Robert "Bob" Cook of O'Fallon, who died at age 60 at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville.

You see, for 19 years Bob was the official Santa Claus of the St. Louis football Cardinals and for longer than that was one of Santa's helpers in making people smile.

"He was very active with charitable organizations and an outstanding speaker," said Richard "Foz" Ryan, a longtime friend of Cook.

"I really don't know how he got started as the Santa for the Big Red," Ryan said. "For all I know he might have put on the suit and just stepped out onto the field at the stadium."

WHATEVER METHOD Cook used, he was known by many and recognized by thousands of fans at the Cardinals' final home game before Christmas.

"He led the team onto the field and got a standing ovation," Ryan said.

Last July at a picnic meeting of former County League baseball players in Columbia, Ill., Cook told of how he enjoyed his relationship with the pro football team.

"One time I went to a game in Indianapolis and was walking with someone who pointed out that we were on the level where the owner's boxes were," Cook said.

"WHEN I FOUND out where Mr. Bidwill was, I stuck my head in the door and went, 'Ho, Ho, Ho,' " Cook said.

"Mr. Bidwill didn't even turn around and asked, "Cook, is that you?' "

After the football Cardinals moved to Arizona, Cook admitted missing the team but was equally disappointed when a letter he wrote to St. Louis Rams officials seeking an opportunity to renew his Santa role received no response.

"I was hopeful of being able to do it again in the new stadium and get past the 20-year mark," said Cook, a 1953 graduate of Assumption High of East St. Louis, where he played football and baseball and was a member of the school's boxing team.

THE RAMS THUS will never know of a Santa who would have been most invaluable Dec. 24 when the St. Louis team plays its final regular season home game against Miami.

"Bob was perfect for the job," Ryan said. "He had the build for it and the enthusiasm. He was a fun-loving guy."

An insurance salesman for the Catholic Knights and Ladies of Illinois, Cook for years played the role of Santa at the O'Fallon Knights of Columbus children's Christmas party.

"He had a way with kids," Ryan said.

My sympathy to Cook's wife Joan Eva, nee Hoskins, five daughters, two sons and family.

OVERTIME: By coincidence, on the weekend of Cook's death, the Ancient Order of Hibernians — of which he was a member — held their convention in O'Fallon. A member of the East St. Louis Rotary Club, Cook also was a volunteer for the American Heart Association, a coach of the Gypsy football team and highly recognized as a master of ceremonies and member of the Toastmaster Club.

Much improved Warriors 4-1 in tourney

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

The Granite City Lady Warriors, hosting their Fall Classic Tournament for the second year, served their way to a much better showing than last year's 0-5 tourney record.

In fact, the Warriors nearly did a 180 this past weekend, falling only to tourney champion Red Bud, and finishing with a nice 4-1 tourney mark.

Red Bud went 5-0, and beat the Warriors in their first match Friday night, 10-15 and 6-15. But it would be the only match the Warriors would lose.

"I'm extremely pleased, and the kids worked very hard," said Granite City coach Cindy Gagich. "They were able to maintain their focus, and get the job done. It was quite a turnaround."

Later on Friday, the Warriors defeated Civic Memorial 7-15, 15-8, 15-9. Granite City had beaten CM in the first match of the season, and the Eagles came out gunning for the Warriors in game one.

"WE EARNED THAT WIN against CM," Gagich said. "It was much more of a challenge that when we got by them on opening night."

The tournament format is for tie-breaking games to be played in the rally scoring system. That simply means that teams do not have to be serving in order to score.

Last season, the Warriors were involved in three such matches, and lost all three. This season, they won both of the matches that went to a tie-breaking third game.

"We practiced last week on the rally scoring," said Gagich. "You have to be mentally prepared for it, and I don't think we were last year. The play is more conservative, with less risk-taking. And serving is even more important."

On Saturday, the Warriors defeated Freeburg 16-14 and 15-7; O'Fallon 15-10 and 15-13; and Jerseyville 12-15, 15-2 and 15-6.

Overall, the Lady Musketeers finished 5-0; while the Warriors were 4-1. Rounding out the tourney standings were Civic Memorial (3-2), Freeburg (2-3), O'Fallon (1-4) and Jerseyville (0-5).

THE LADY PANTHERS got into trouble on Saturday because they tried to play with illegal uniforms. Player numbers have to be a certain distance from the collar, and the IHSA set these regulations three years ago, giving schools the three years to comply.

Jerseyville was warned of their illegal uniforms on Friday night, and asked to substitute them for Saturday. When they showed up the next day with the same uniforms, they were disqualified.

"It's really unfortunate, because it's not the girls' fault, and that's who we were punishing," Gagich said. "But the school had plenty of time to

Red Bud owns Fall Classic

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

The Red Bud Lady Musketeers must think they own this place.

In the brief two-year history of the Granite City Fall Classic tournament, the Lady Musketeers have now won the tournament both times.

They are now a perfect 10-0 when they travel to Granite City in the last two years.

Once again, it was a total team effort, as Red Bud used a variety of hitters and solid defense to beat the rest of the pack. The Warriors finished second at 4-1, and Civic Memorial placed third.

The tournament's Most Valuable Player and All-Tournament team was voted on by the coaches; and the MVP went to Red Bud's 5-11 senior Lisa Reinhold. The left-handed outside hitter was the only real standout performer on a balanced Red Bud team.

Also making the team was Amy Mortensen of Jerseyville,

Warrior tennis record at 4-4

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

The Granite City Lady Warrior tennis team completed a busy week last Wednesday by improving to 4-4 overall with a 5-2 win over McCluer North.

That followed a 3-4 loss to Civic Memorial on Monday and a 4-3 win over Roxana on Tuesday.

Last Wednesday, the Warriors won three out of four singles matches and two of the three doubles matches. Geeta Kumar got things started for the Warriors with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Shannon Leahy of McCluer.

Marci Holsinger, who dropped to the 2 spot because of an illness, still managed to win her match, 7-5, 6-0 over LaDonna Johnson. Holsinger has been suffering from allergy problems.

No. 3 singles player Melissa Smith cruised past Tracey Carter 6-1, 6-1; and Krislyn Niggli lost a hard-fought match with Brandi Hatch, 4-6, 2-6.

"That was Krislyn's first-ever singles match," said Warrior coach Linda Ames. "I thought she played very well, and I was very satisfied."

Ames also switched the doubles teams around last week. She said she was just not getting the type of play she needed in those spots.

McKendree soccer on the rise

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

The lean years may be over for the McKendree College men's soccer team.

The Bearcats, who were 3-14-2 last season, took a 6-2 record into Saturday's home game against Maryville University.

"Last year was not a very good year for us, but we got some good recruits," said second-year coach Tim Strange. "We added (goalkeeper Tim Henson (Granite City High School) and (forward) Dave Gerber (Wood River) from Lewis & Clark. Gerber was the (American Midwest) conference player of the week (for Sept. 4) and had six goals in our first five games.

"We've got good talent — it's just a matter of putting it all together. We needed a goal scorer, which was our biggest problem last year. We didn't have a guy who could finish.

Rosenburg

Lakotos

Henson

"We only graduated one guy and we have six returning seniors to help us out. We also have eight freshmen."

The forwards are Gerber and senior Jason Bode (Triad). Henson and junior Doug Carr (Mascoutah) are the goalkeepers.

"Bode has really played well," Strange said. "He's a little bigger than Gerber and lets us get up the field to use Gerber's speed. Mathenia does a great job as a leader in the back; he takes control. Matt Craig has also played well."

"Chris Jacquot (a freshman midfielder from Collinsville) is getting a lot of playing time. We're really happy with the start of the season, but it was kind of what we expected."

McKendree got goals from Craig, Gerber, Jacquot, freshman Hayato Akiyama (Tokorozawa, Japan) and freshman Brandon Stultz (Collinsville) in a 5-1 win over Brescia on Sept. 9. The next day, Bode scored three goals and Gerber scored once in a 4-3 win over Kentucky Wesleyan.

On Tuesday, Gerber scored twice and Craig, Bode and Stultz scored once each in a 5-1 win over Harris-Stowe.

For the season, Gerber has 10 goals and Bode has seven. Craig leads the team with seven assists and also has four goals.

"I think we can win the conference," Strange said.

Warriors ready for real cross country running

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

With the cross country season approaching the midway point already, the Granite City Warriors are doing what it takes to get ready for the second half of the season, when the real running begins.

The Warriors spent last weekend running their favorite course — not! — at the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"It's a very challenging course, and it can be intimidating because of all of the hills," said Warrior coach Dave McClain. "The kids don't really like it very much.

"It's a cross country course, and unless you practice on that type of course all the time, it can be a tough course."

The Warriors did not finish well as a team at the 18-team event, but that's not what McClain was looking for in the first place. With a limited number of runners, the Warriors have to be more concerned about individual achievements at this point.

"We ran individually better this time than when we ran the course a couple of weeks ago," said McClain. "We brought our times down, and that's all you can ask for at this point."

WHILE THE FIRST HALF of the season can almost be used as a conditioning tool, the last part of the running schedule is very important. Coming up in the near future for Granite City will be the Madison County meet, the Southwestern Conference meet and the regionals and sectionals.

"That's really what the whole year leads up to," said McClain. "The county meet is important, and so is the conference meet. After that, it's time to really get serious in the regionals."

McClain said he's getting the most improvement from Jason Peeler, Eddie Connaly and Tim Hatley on the boys' side. Jason

Anderson has been the most consistent boys' performer so far this year.

On the girls' side, Nicole Done is the leader, although she did not fare well at Edwardsville.

"I'm not concerned yet about her; she might not have been feeling well this weekend. If it continues, I would have to ask her what's wrong," McClain said.

Overall, the comraderie on the team has remained solid all year.

"When you're running day in and day out with somebody, you get to know each other pretty well. The kids out for cross country usually get along well. When you run that many miles together, you have to."

Fortunately, the Warrior will have easier tasks this weekend and the next when they run at Springfield and Triad.

Then they will get ready for the conference meet, which will take place at Belleville West, the same site as the regionals.

"It's always good when you can go into the regional familiar with the course," McClain said.

However, one good sign is that Chris Oberloh has returned to the team after a brief disciplinary problem. Oberloh transferred from McCluer North to Granite City last year, so she was eager to play the McCluer team.

"It was good to see Chris pumped up before that match," said Ames. "We need her on the team and playing well."

Oberloh and Heather Hoeninger, playing in the No. 1 doubles position, defeated Stefanie Thoebes and Angie Kell 7-6, 7-6 in the day's closest match.

"I like that team," said Ames of her new No. 1 combination.

At No. 2 doubles, Amanda Crabtree and Michelle Montgomery lost another close match, to Beth Stoll and Trisha Hussmann of McCluer by the score of 4-6, 3-6.

And the No. 3 team of Kim Conaway and Julie Hildebrand made quick work of Stacey Nack and Jennifer Held, winning by the scores of 6-0 and 6-2.

Ames said that McCluer, a school about the size of GCHS, has a smaller than average team out this season.

That was the main reason only one junior varsity match was played. Fortunately for the Warriors, Adina Lewis won that match.

"The McCluer team is down this year," said Ames. "All of the coaches have been talking, and it seems nobody has very many freshmen out; and I have no clue why that is.

"We're all very surprised by that. It makes me feel fortunate that I have six freshmen out this year."

The Warriors are in the middle of a strange week. They were to play Althoff on Tuesday and East St. Louis on Wednesday. Granite City was faced with playing their very best just to compete with Althoff, while they would have to play their worst to keep from sweeping East Side.

The Warriors play in the Civic Memorial Tournament this weekend at Gordon Moore Park in Alton.

Warrior Geeta Kumar got things started for the Warriors with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Shannon Leahy of McCluer. Above, Kumar in action against Edwardsville on Sept. 1.

Right season: It's time to go hunting

By Bill Seibel
Correspondent

Bill Seibel

A breath of cool air, coupled with a little less sunlight in the day, makes people ready to hunt.

Dove season has had most of the month, with success ranging from good to downright poor across the area. Dove populations generally were down across the area, but there were spots of very good numbers.

In those spots, the birds seemed concentrated, which meant some hunters got some very good shooting. However, others went hungry and barely dirtied their shotgun barrels.

As most dove hunters know, this is a game of fast action and plenty of shooting. In fact, some don't even call it dove hunting, they call it dove shooting. And if you're like a lot of us, you shoot a lot for the little success you get. The ammo manufacturers love it.

The special teal season now is history. This story is a lot different than the dove season, generally speaking. Most everyone I've talked to has seen the fast-moving, early-migrating Blue-winged teal.

Like the dove hunters, those that practiced with their shotguns before the season opened had plenty of success, often bagging their four-bird limits. However, others made the ammo manufacturers very, very happy. And the teal nervous. However, the oven might be a bit empty!

Soon, many hunters will be heading afield with their bows and arrows, sitting in trees and waiting for a wary Whitetail deer to amble by within 20 yards or so. Bowhunting is a game that combines patience, perseverance and plenty of knowledge, as well as skill.

BOWHUNTING ALSO is a game of ethical conduct. It requires each of us to place limitations upon ourselves, based upon our own individual abilities to first get close to a deer and second to shoot accurately at that range. For some, that might mean 40 yards (although there are very few in this category!). For most, it means 20 yards or less.

Par for the course — Granite City's David Martin makes a practice putt recently at Arlington Golf Course.

Jennifer Willis of Granite City, Leah Suessen of Civic Memorial, Donna Parish of Freeburg, Amber Bast of Civic Memorial and Shelley Weber of O'Fallon.

As for the Musketeers, tournament host and Granite City coach Cindy Gagich was impressed with their versatility.

"They are so well-balanced; with solid hitters from a variety of positions," she said. "They serve extremely tough; and offensively they are very smart. Their variety of shots made the opposing defenses work very hard.

"And they have a coach, Sandy Griffin, who has been coaching there for over 20 years; and she's just a great coach. She teaches them the fundamentals, and down there in Red Bud they have great feeder programs, as well. It's just a solid program."

Red Bud sped through the tournament, winning all five matches in two games. The Musketeers beat Granite City (10, 6) and Freeburg (7, 13) on Friday; then dispatched of Jerseyville (14, 7) O'Fallon (10, 9) and Civic Memorial (6, 12) on Saturday.

"We think that the round-robin format is the best," Gagich said. "Teams that come to this tournament know they're going to get in five matches. Pool play just isn't like that.

"We're doing our best to build a first-class tournament. Every coach said they would come back next year. That tells us we're on the right track."

It also takes a lot of work and a lot of help from a multitude of volunteers. Gagich said all she had to do over the weekend was coach.

"I had my assistant coaches, Ruth Layton and Deb Germann, who kept an eye on the matches and the JV and freshmen girls were there to run errands and do whatever they could.

"I especially want to thank the members of the Boosters and the other parents who did so much. I didn't have anything to worry about. I also got great help from (AD) Jerry McKechan and (asst. AD) Bob Cowan. It takes a lot of people working hard to pull this off.

"I also think we're fortunate to have this facility, with the two gyms. Everything went smoothly, the matches were on time; it really was a good tournament, and we'll be working on ways to make it better."

•Tourney —

comply, and we felt like we had to do something. I think it rattled the girls quite a bit."

For the tournament, the Lady Warriors served at 87 percent, which is not great but an improvement for them. It was either feast or famine from the service line, with Granite City collecting 46 service aces — nearly four per game — but they also had their share of service errors, as well.

The Warriors' top hitters were also their top servers. Jennifer Willis finished with 42 kills and 12 service aces. Stephanie Brandt had 42 kills to go with her 17 aces.

Jenna Wright finished with 23 kills for the tourney, while Denise McMillan had 14 kills to go with 97 assists. The Warriors had 115 kills as a team.

"It really wasn't a case of the competition being any less this year, it was a well-balanced tournament," said Gagich. "We just played that much better."

•Hunting —

Getting that close to a deer without losing your cool, then being able to draw the bowstring and release the arrow without the animal catching the movement and spooking takes some effort. But it is done and done well by thousands of hunters in both Missouri and Illinois each year.

Late September also is the time for hunters to head for the woods to bag some squirrels. This a good time to start scouting for fall turkeys, which will be legal to hunt in late October. And to scout for deer. And squirrels just happen to produce some terrific food for the table.

In fact, my wife often fusses that I don't squirrel hunt enough. She fries the young ones and it rivals chicken. The older squirrels are cut up and put into a stew which goes well on a cool fall evening.

SQUIRREL HUNTING is not as easy as a lot of people make it sound. In fact, I like to tell young hunters that if they can consistently hunt squirrels successfully, they can hunt other woods species like deer and turkey as well.

This year should be both interesting and a challenge for squirrel hunters. The drought that has gripped most of the state from mid-summer on has made the woods very dry, sort of like walking in a cracker barrel. This means you won't move quietly, so success will require setting up and waiting the bushytails out.

The drought also has affected the trees. In some places, the trees are loaded with mast — plenty of acorns and even more hickory nuts. Squirrels love to stock up on hickory nuts at this time of year. But in other places, there aren't many nuts.

So those hunters will have to figure out what the squirrels are using for food — row crops like corn, other seeds or whatever.

Of course, if you find a little pond or water hole that has moisture, you could be in a great spot to bag squirrels while you look over the other kinds of game that will come into season later in the fall. Everything gravitates to watering holes in the woods in a drought.

The point is, it's time to go hunting. It's a great time of year!

OUTDOOR NOTE: National Hunting and Fishing Day will be celebrated across the nation on Saturday, Sept. 23. There are a number of special events in this region, including a celebration at the August A. Busch Conservation Area, Weldon Spring, and at Olin Winchester's Nilo Farms in Brighton, Ill.

Steven Smith honored at Eagle Court

An Eagle Court of Honor was held on March 19 for Steven D. Smith at the Elks Lodge 1063 on Maryville Road in Granite City.

A dinner was served to all the guests by the committee of Troop 122 in the banquet room. Bruce Evans led the group in reciting the Phimont Grace. After dinner, the guests were seated in the lodge room for the ceremony.

The Eagle Court of Honor ceremony began with the presentation of the American and Troop flags. The color guard, dressed in parade uniforms of helmets, gloves, belts and rifles, consisted of Patrick Seibold, Philip Matoesian, Brian Melson, Erik Kambarian, Shannon Gergen, Ryan Evans, Joe Weaver and Jeremy Nighohossian.

Guests were asked by senior patrol leader Tony Evans to join him in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Don Dean, a former scoutmaster, then introduced special guests scouters Wayne Siegrist, Leroy Stark, Bud and Charlotte Charbonnier, and family members Donjean Smith, Betty Strohmaier, Dennis Smith, Ruby Voss and Robert and Luella Humphreys.

Eagle Honor Guard Randy Werner escorted Steven into the lodge room for the ceremony. Edward and JoAnn Smith, Steven's parents were escorted by Joseph Humphreys Jr. The ceremony was called "Voice of the Eagle" and was narrated by Mike Seibold.

As the ranks wee presented in a story format, the boys portrayed the parts and lit the candles. The scouts who participated and lit the candles of rank were Patrick Seibold, who portrayed the scout; Erik Kambarian, first-class scout; Shannon Gergen, first class scout; Tony Evans, star scout; and Joseph Humphreys Jr., life scout.

Jan Melson, advancement chairman, then read the Eagle Challenge to Steven.

Bruce Evans gave the Eagle Pledge. Steven's father then presented him with his neckerchief. Steven's mother then presented him with the Eagle Badge. Steven then presented his father with an Eagle tie tack and his mother with a silver Eagle pin. Steven had chosen a poem by Dr. Suess entitled "Oh, the Places You'll Go," which was read by Bruce Evans.

Anita Dean then read a card from Bill and Hillary Clinton. Other letters presented were from U.S. Rep. Jerry F. Costello, Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar, Mayor Ron Selph and U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff General Ronald R. Fogeman.

Bud Charbonnier presented Steven with a National Eagle Scout Neckerchief and a membership from Troop 122, along with a plaque from the Granite City Optimist Club.

Ed Futch, district manager of Mitchell Water District, presented Steven with a plaque from the Mitchell Water District for all fire hydrants that were cleaned and painted for his Eagle service project.

Virgil Kambarian presented Steven with an American flag, which had been flown over the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., on Jan. 27, in Steven's honor. Leroy Stark presented Steven with a Bible from the Eagle's Home FOE 1126. He then read the Eagle Charge, encouraging Steven to live up to the ideals of an Eagle Scout.

Steven responded with his hopes of how to fulfill that charge, his appreciation to all the people who had helped him achieve this prestigious honor and a special thanks to his scoutmaster, Bruce Evans, for his help and support.

Steven then presented Ed Futch with a photo album of his Eagle service project of the fire hydrants that were cleaned and painted. Bruce Evans then gave the closing benediction. Tony Evans and the color guard retired the colors to close the ceremony.

A reception was held in the banquet room, where an Eagle cake from Mrs. Seibold's Bake Shop, was served.

Gephardt says replace tax code that 'doesn't work'

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

Here is one congressman's analysis of the current tax code:

It is cluttered with "gimmicks and giveaways" and has become "a dense fog of incentives, inducements and penalties that distort the most basic economic decisions, constrain the free market and make it hard for Americans to run their own lives."

The tax code also "is riddled with loopholes and simply doesn't work."

The congressman is U.S. Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo. His solution: "Replace everything, overhaul the entire system from top to bottom."

Gephardt is proposing a tax system he claims would do just that.

Under Gephardt's plan, three-quarters of American families would be in the 10 percent tax bracket. A single taxpayer with annual wages of $31,800 would pay 10 percent; so would a family of four earning $61,550.

His tax system would raise as much money as the current code, he says, yet it would require just a postcard-size tax return. Voters would have to approve increases in the tax rate.

His goal is a simple and fair tax code in which everyone would pay his fair share, he says.

"We must give Americans the power to run their own economic lives," Gephardt said. "We must take the decisions and disincentives out of the committee rooms of the Capitol and put that power back into the living rooms of America.

"The way to do that is to close the loopholes, lower tax rates and let families spend their money in ways that are right for them," he said.

The first loophole Gephardt would close is job-related fringe benefits such as medical insurance and profit sharing — they would be taxable. While this step would boost one's taxable income, it would be more than offset by the lower tax rate, he said.

"Most Americans will pay less, not more, in taxes," Gephardt said.

He also would eliminate the loopholes collectively known as "corporate welfare," the deductions and exemptions that save businesses $50 billion in annual income taxes.

One loophole would remain: Because owning a home "is such an essential part of the American dream," homeowners could still deduct mortgage interest, he said.

"We can have a tax system that is both simple and fair," Gephardt said. "My plan takes us back to the first principles of the federal income tax — to collect tax dollars fairly, simple and broadly to pay for crucial public purposes."

Structure of Gephardt tax plan

Here's how the Gephardt tax plan would tax you: Remember, gross income would include the cost of fringe benefits.

- Individuals with gross incomes of up to $31,800 would be taxed at 10 percent. The 20 percent tax bracket would end at $66,050; the 26 percent bracket at $129,350; and the 32 percent bracket at $271,900. Higher incomes would be taxed at 34 percent.
- A family of four with income of up to $61,550 would be taxed at 10 percent. The 20 percent tax bracket would extend to $116,500; the 26 percent bracket to $167,500; and the 32 percent bracket to $283,800. Higher family incomes would be taxed at 34 percent.

BAC expands extension course offerings

Due to popular demand, Belleville Area College will open additional sections of its extension center courses this fall.

"The college will add three Computer Information System courses later this semester to satisfy the demand for these courses in those communities," said Carmel Calsyn, director of BAC's Office of Non-Traditional Programs.

The classes will include:

- Personal Computers DOS, one credit hour, 6:50 to 9:50 p.m. Wednesdays, Nov. 8-Dec. 6, Waterloo High School.
- Introduction to IBM Personal computers, one credit hour, 6:50 to 9:50 p.m. Wednesdays, Oct. 4-Nov. 1, at Collinsville High School, 2201 S. Morrison Ave.

Tuition is $40 per credit hour. Some courses may have additional lab fees.

Students may register from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Fridays, up to one week before the class begins at the college's three campuses: 2500 Carlyle Rd. in Belleville, 4950 Maryville Rd. in Granite City, and 500 W.S. Fourth St. in Red Bud. Extension Center students are encouraged to register by telephone, at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 455 or 393.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY Research Update

Prostate Cancer: Working towards a Cure

Prostate cancer has become the most frequently diagnosed cancer in the United States, striking 244,000 American men in 1995. As the American population ages, the disease will become more common, because 80% of prostate cancers are diagnosed among men age 65 and older.

However, research is making great strides in learning more about the causes, detection, treatment and cure of prostate cancer.

The American Cancer Society's support for prostate cancer research dates back to the 1940s. One of the Society's early grantees was Dr. Charles Huggins of the University of Chicago, whose work on the hormonal treatment of prostate cancer led to his being awarded the Nobel Prize in 1966.

The American Cancer Society's current investment in prostate cancer research is $3.75 million, which supports 14 research projects across the country.

Continued research into hormonal therapy is being conducted at the University of Wisconsin. At the University of Colorado, scientists are investigating the effectiveness of an established anti-cancer drug, floxuridine, in treating prostate cancer.

In addition, the Society is interested in learning how prostate cancer becomes hormone-resistant, and is funding studies in this area by scientists at Johns Hopkins University.

An American Cancer Society grantee at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center is working to fine-tune brachytherapy, the internal radiation treatment of prostate cancer. A new form of treatment called cryoablation also is in the works, in which cancer cells are frozen with liquid nitrogen.

Another promising form of treatment is laser ablation of localized prostate cancer. Investigators at Wayne State University are working to perfect this technique and demonstrate its safety and effectiveness on patients.

The American Cancer Society also is funding exciting projects investigating the causes of prostate cancer. For example, at the Harvard School of Public Health, researchers are performing environmental risk assessments and investigating possible nutritional links to the disease.

It's an exciting and hopeful time in the prostate cancer arena.

For more information about prostate cancer, call your local American Cancer Society at: 1-800-ACS-2345.

Horoscope

Wednesday, Sept. 20

The moon in exuberant Leo heats up a social mix. Jet forward with projects. Love and friendship reign supreme, while the moon (feelings) and Venus (affection) build morning rapport. By noon, sincere dialogue dispels stress at work. Avoid making critical decisions if tempers flare — a generous midday gesture neutralizes tension when the moon and Jupiter (expansion) smooth over a rough patch.

Fresh Picks

To freeze fresh broccoli, wash and cut in florets. Place in wire basket or colander. Submerge in saucepan of boiling water 2 minutes. Cool immediately in ice water. Drain well. Pack in reclosable plastic freezer bags. Freeze up to 10 months.

Big Fat Tip

Macaroni and cheese provides enough protein to suffice as a main dish, accompanied by vegetables, salad or fruit to create a balanced meal. Because the dish usually supplies a generous amount of fat, serve herbed bread or rolls without margarine or butter, so hearty eaters' appetites are satisfied without eating large portions of macaroni and cheese. To maximize the healthfulness of the dish from boxed mixes, use low-fat milk and less or no butter or margarine than the package directs. Homemade mac and cheese can use reduced-fat cheese and limited butter or margarine.

Future Shop

By 2005, a consumer and the supermarket are expected to be rolled together like a burrito. Because a shopper is expected to be ordering groceries on a home computer for home delivery directly from a warehouse, specialized home-delivery supermarket or a mobile supermarket, the computer will be able to deliver individualized promotions by E-mail, fax or even interactive television. The dream also foresees timely delivery of prepared food from on-the-road restaurants. Sources: Food Marketing Institute's 'Global Supply Integration' report and 'The One to One Future — Building Relationships One Customer at a Time,' by Peppers and Rogers

Pork chops with a tasty breading come to the table after just 20 minutes of baking. Add a tossed salad with frilly greens, plus a rice dish. Sliced fresh fruit and iced tea finish the meal with easy style.

TURN IT ON

By Janice Denham
Staff writer

After a long, hot summer, "relief" comes from getting back in the kitchen to cook. These menus are no seven-course dinners. This is the simple pleasure of preparing pork chops, fish cakes or chicken breasts on a stovetop or in the oven and adding a couple side dishes for a nutritious, delicious meal.

Cooking in the kitchen can be as simple as cooking outdoors on a grill. Choose quick-cooking cuts of meat, poultry and fish, then accompany them with simple side dishes — fresh or even from mixes — and baked or microwaved apples or a scoop of frozen yogurt for dessert.

Filling the plate with rice, pasta, breads, salad and steamed vegetables gets dinner to the table quickly. Because of the variety in the supermarket, there is no need to serve the same meat and potatoes and canned green beans night after night. The modern palate enjoys variety and the pantry is eager to hold plenty of it at once.

Rice comes ready to cook from scratch or packaged with a sauce ready for fixing. The same goes

Divide a loaf (1 pound) frozen bread dough, thawed, in 6 equal pieces, then divide each into 4 equal pieces. Roll each into ball. Place 4 balls, touching, in straight line on greased baking sheet with each set of 4 balls 2 to 3 inches apart. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Let dough rise in warm area free of drafts until double in size. Bake in preheated 375° oven 12 to 15 minutes until golden brown. Remove to wire rack to cool.

To decorate, heat a mini-marshmallow 5 to 10 seconds until it becomes soft, plump and sticky when pressed. Firmly press 2 marshmallows on caterpillar face for eyes. Press a chocolate chip or raisin cut in half into each marshmallow. Place 2 straight pretzels in top head of caterpillar for antennae. Pierce a marshmallow with each pretzel stick for tip.

Private Label Test Run

Price Chopper carries a can of Best Choice sliced asparagus for 99 cents.

Canned asparagus rates high

Back in the "good old days" when fresh vegetables were not common during the winter, asparagus was not on many plates until it leafed up in the garden in April or May. Suburban Journal testers got a taste of what life was like then, when they sampled Best Choice canned cut asparagus from Price Chopper.

"I grew up with canned asparagus and cream of asparagus soup being my only taste of the vegetable," reminisced one taster. She added many stores now do not even carry canned asparagus. At Price Chopper it costs 99 cents, which another taster called it "a good price."

With a current tradition of fresh asparagus popular, the product drew mixed reactions. Those who knew canned asparagus as well as the fresh variety recognized it immediately.

One tester who anticipated the testing after seeing the 14½-ounce can being opened was very positive.

"This is very good. It tastes just like canned asparagus should taste," he said.

The cut spears with both thicker pieces and tips looked just like those on the can when they were emptied. Heating them a short time caused the tips to come apart.

"That's what I remember about canned asparagus. It's best to eat straight or add to salad," a tester said. Another suggested using it in homemade soup. A third said canned asparagus is more akin to cream of asparagus soup than to fresh asparagus.

"This asparagus was very good," added a taster new to the canned variety. "It was tender and for a canned product did not taste too salty."

Fresh apples harvested with distinctive crunch

Nothing beats the crunch of a crisp apple.

The peak of the local apple season is at the doorstep, even though they are easy to get year-round. Although this is not expected to be a record year for local orchards, the fall harvest still will overflow in roadside stands and farmer's markets.

Going directly to the orchard for apple picking is a family adventure full of fun. It means picking the cream oe cream oe
cream of the delicious crop, while relishing the cool fresh air.

Varieties of apples seem to grow each year due to importation and cross-breeding.

Those termed "all-purpose" — good for fresh eating, salads and most cooking — are jonathan, winesap, golden delicious, McIntosh, fuji, jonagold, granny smith and elstar. Firm, long-keeping types are red delicious, gala royal gala and newtown pippin, which usually are eaten uncooked. For baking, winesap, rome beauty and criterion are favored.

Ways to enjoy apples are endless. Savor a sweet, juicy apple out of hand or add a touch of peanut butter to slices.

When apples are no longer crisp, make fresh applesauce. Cut them in large chunks, add a few tablespoons water or orange juice and simmer until tender. Sugar or honey can be added to taste. The aroma of cooking apples throughout the house is inviting.

Spice up applesauce with sprinkles of cinnamon, or use red hots or cinnamon candy drops for a tangy flavor and burst of pink blush. Mash with a potato masher, put through a hand ricer or process according to the consistency desired. Serve it hot or cold.

Applesauce can be used as a substitute for all or part of the oil in some baked foods. This lowers calories while the nutritional value increases.

Unfortunately, the saying, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away," is not an insurance policy. However, apples are a good source of energy-packed carbohydrate without fat, potassium and fiber.

Feasting on Apple-Broccoli Coleslaw helps get the recommended five or more servings of fruits and vegetables daily. Broccoli, too, is a low-calorie, low-fat source of nutrients. Enhancing the coleslaw with vibrant color and sweet crunch is the red pepper, super-packed with vitamins A and C.

Registered dietitian Becky Blair is a member of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association, St. Louis Chapter.

APPLE-BROCCOLI COLESLAW

- 1 pkg. (16 oz.) shredded broccoli coleslaw mix (or shredded cabbage)
- 1 large apple, diced (red delicious or other favorite variety)
- 1 large red bell pepper, diced
- ⅔ cup sugar
- ⅔ cup cider vinegar

Mix together broccoli coleslaw mix, apple and red pepper.

Dissolve sugar in vinegar. Stir well. Pour over vegetable mixture. Cover. Refrigerate.

Keeps well several days.

Yields eight (½-cup) servings; 100 calories, 1 g protein, 24 g carbohydrate, no fat or cholesterol and low sodium each.

Rice provides food base that pads meals all day

Nutritious, versatile, inexpensive and adaptable, rice is a basic food on the bottom, the largest portion, of the Food Pyramid for good eating.

Rice is one of the bases for healthful eating, with six to 11 servings a day recommended from the group containing grain products like bread, cereal and pasta. It also is a boon for people who have trouble digesting other grains.

Rice offers an alternative side dish potatoes have fulfilled for some people seven days a week for many years. It moves beyond pilaf and plain. It is easy to combine with cooked or raw vegetables or fruits in salad or can be served as pudding for dessert.

Molded into various shapes, it adds interest to a dinner plate. Just grease custard cups or gelatin molds with oil or butter and press hot cooked rice into the cup. To unmold, run a knife around the side of the cup and invert on a serving plate.

If a cook is overly generous in cooking rice, just freeze it and add later to dishes calling for cooked rice.

Most people are familiar with the traditional white long or medium grain rice, but other varieties vary the taste, appearance and nutritional value of the dish.

Brown rice, rich in vitamin B, is covered by a layer of bran, but has the outer hull removed. Converted rice's bran layer has been removed by steaming, but it still is rich in vitamin B. "Wild rice" is quite tame, with a rich nutty flavor that comes during the browning process. It is higher in protein than regular rice. Often a package of "wild rice" is actually a grass, rather than a rice.

Home economist Judy Eddy specializes in microwave cooking.

MICROWAVED SPANISH RICE

- 4 slices bacon, chopped
- ¼ cup diced onion
- 1 can (16 oz.) diced tomatoes
- ½ cup water
- 1 tbsp. brown sugar
- 1 tsp. garlic salt
- ½ tsp. crushed red pepper
- ¼ tsp. chili powder
- 1 cup uncooked long grain rice
- ¼ cup chopped green bell pepper

In 2-quart casserole, microwave bacon on high power 4 to 5 minutes until crispy. Remove bacon. Drain on paper towels.

Add onion to bacon drippings. Cook on high power 3 minutes or until onion is tender.

Stir in tomatoes with juice, water, brown sugar, garlic salt, red pepper, chili powder and rice. Cover tightly. Microwave on high power 5 minutes.

Stir in green pepper. Cook on medium (50 percent) power 12 to 14 minutes.

Crumble bacon. Add to rice. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes, to absorb remaining liquid.

Kombucha not proven as cure of most ills

Some people think it's a miracle drink. Others find it disgusting. One thing is for sure. The craze over Kombucha has reached a fevered pitch.

Kombucha has been around for thousands of years, spreading in waves of popularity. Some attribute its origins to Manchuria; others to Tibet, Japan or Eastern Siberia. In the United States, interest in the beverage began in California and quickly spread to other states.

It may be a popular phenomenon, but its safety needs to be explored.

Kombucha — also called Manchurian mushroom tea, Kargasok tea or tea wine — is not made from mushrooms. Rather, it is made by fermenting a mixture of tea and sugar in a warm, dim place for a week or more. In the East, green tea is used most often, but any variety suffices.

As it ferments, various yeasts and bacteria form a gelatinous disc, known as the "mushroom." The resulting tea tastes like a vinegary apple cider.

After the mixture has fermented fully, a new baby mushroom forms on the top of the original mushroom. Users often pass this second mushroom on to friends and family as a "gift." Legend has it anyone who profits from selling the mushroom will reap personal disaster and be doomed to a life of ill fate.

Many users of Kombucha promote drinking four ounces of the tea three times a day for "whatever ails you." Its "cures" are wide and astounding.

Touted as a miracle cure for cancer, rheumatism, kidney illnesses, cataracts and diabetes, Kombucha also has been called a salvation for alleviation of multiple sclerosis, shingles and menopausal symptoms. It also is said to burn fat and make hair grow. Reported side effects include cramps and diarrhea.

Is it safe and effective? According to Dr. Varro Tyler, a professor at Purdue University who studies drugs derived from plants and animals, almost all of the evidence supporting the benefit of Kombucha is anecdotal testimonials.

Because there have been no reliable clinical trials on the safety and effectiveness of Kombucha, he recommends against drinking large amounts of the tea on a regular basis.

The method for making Kombucha can result in contamination with harmful bacteria and molds. Such contamination could cause serious problems, particularly for infants, the elderly and immune-compromised individuals.

So, should anyone drink it?

The risk of contamination outweighs the unproven benefits. A person dying from an illness untreatable with antibiotics may find some merit to drinking some, provided its side effects do not occur.

Carbon monoxide needs sleuthing for home exposure

Carbon monoxide should be a concern in any home that has a fuel-burning appliance, such as a gas range, kerosene space heater, dryer or hot water heater. It should be checked annually for leaks or other malfunctions.

It is estimated 1,000 Americans die each year from unintentional carbon monoxide poisoning. Ten times that number seek medical treatment for carbon monoxide exposure. Carbon monoxide results when fuels — like kerosene, propane, natural gas, and gasoline — burn without enough oxygen to burn completely.

It bears no color or odor, which makes it hard to detect.

Carbon monoxide is a slow killer as well. It attaches to the hemoglobin on a person's red blood cells in the same way oxygen does, but it clings faster and tighter.

With little room for oxygen to attach to hemoglobin on red blood cells, the body begins to suffer oxygen deprivation. Exposure to small amounts over long periods of time are just as dangerous as exposure to greater amounts over shorter periods.

Early warning signs include vomiting, confusion and heart flutters.

Prevention is key and can be accomplished easily. Regular inspections of appliances and a carbon monoxide (CO) detector are advised.

for pasta. While the seasonings are prepared to please, it still is within a cook's range to individualize the dish by adding a family's favorites, more rice or pasta to fill the sauce or varying liquids with wine, milk or lighter ingredients.

To have dinner quickly, cook extras and freeze in appropriate quantities for future weekday meals. Soups, main dishes and vegetables can be ready to thaw and serve by individuals on varying dinner schedules. Serving them in "real" plates and bowls gives them appeal.

Most prepared main dishes, casseroles, stews, soups, meat and gravy packed together or separately, cooked poultry, roasts, chops, burgers and sauces freeze well. Usually hot foods should be chilled to room temperature before packing in freezer bags.

Most dinner-type dishes are best thawed partially, then heated to serving temperature. Freezing tends to intensify onion, garlic, pepper, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg, while salt, thyme, rosemary, basil, dill and sage will lose flavor.

Ground pork offers a delicious base for a burger. This one has a surprise inside: savory sauteed mushrooms and green onion.

Battle burger boredom with new flavor accents

After a summer of grilled burgers, the old routine can begin to lose its sizzle. Break new ground by using fresh pork.

When buying ground pork, it is important to know one's cooking needs. Like other ground meats, buy only as much as can be used the next few days. Because there may be less variety of ground pork in the meat case, it is easy to ask the butcher to grind it from a chosen piece of meat.

If stocking up, wrap and freeze meat. Thaw in the refrigerator as needed.

For tender burgers, handle ingredients as little as possible. Overmixing toughens any ground meat mixture.

Do not overcook the meat. Cook pork burgers to medium doneness and take them off the grill or broiler while still juicy. Cooking a burger ¾-inch thick over hot coals, turning once, should take about 10 minutes. Do not press down burgers on the grill with a spatula or juices will be lost and could start unwanted flames.

Ground pork is similar to other fresh pork cuts, because it easily accepts diverse flavors, whether it be a teriyaki marinade or a simple dose of barbecue sauce. For notable dinner burgers, try mixing ground pork with Dijon mustard and Worcestershire sauce, then stuff the patties with sauteed mushrooms, green onion and garlic.

For an international twist, build a foundation with black pepper and crushed garlic, then create global flavors like jerk pork burgers with ground cloves, oregano and thyme.

THE OTHER BURGER

1 lb. lean ground pork
1 tsp. pepper
1 clove garlic, crushed
Salt to taste

Gently mix pork, pepper, garlic and salt. Shape into 4 patties, each about ¾-inch thick.

Grill over medium-hot coals or broil 4 to 5 minutes on each side.

Italian Burgers: Add 1 teaspoon crushed fennel seed and 1 teaspoon crumbled oregano.

Cajun Burgers: Add ¼ teaspoon crushed thyme, ¼ teaspoon oregano and ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper.

Jerk Burgers: Add ¼ teaspoon ground cloves, ¼ teaspoon oregano and ¼ teaspoon thyme.

Bangkok Burgers: Add 1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger root and 1 teaspoon soy sauce.

Southwest Burgers: Add ¼ teaspoon ground cumin, ¼ teaspoon oregano and ¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper.

MUSHROOM-STUFFED PORK BURGERS

¾ cup thinly sliced fresh mushrooms
¼ cup thinly sliced green onion
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tsp. butter or margarine
1½ lb. lean ground pork
1 tsp. Dijon mustard
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. freshly ground pepper

In skillet, saute mushrooms, onion and garlic in butter about 2 minutes until tender.

Combine ground pork, mustard, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Mix well. Shape into 12 patties, each about 4 inches in diameter.

Spoon mushroom mixture in center of 6 patties. Spread to within ½ inch of edge. Top each with a remaining patty. Seal edges.

On greased grill about 6 inches from medium-hot coals, cook patties 10 to 15 minutes, turning once.

Zucchini croquettes make for great snacking

Irma Farina, South St. Louis, is this week's winner of dinner certificates to the Pasta House Co. for Zucchini Appetizers.

This is a long-time favorite of her family and friends. They can be frozen for serving later.

Recipes in the next contest for any type of German food must be postmarked by Sept. 30. Weekly winners on the four Wednesdays in October will be taken from these entries.

A single entry to the contest should be sent to: German Fest Recipe Contest, Suburban Journals, 1714 Deer Tracks Trail, St. Louis, Mo. 63131. Any type of German recipe will be welcome, but keep in mind that streamlined recipes better fit today's lifestyle.

One winner each week will be chosen on the basis of taste and eye appeal, as well as originality, although the recipe need not be original. Double-check directions and specific amounts, giving variations that individualize the recipe.

If possible, tell where the recipe came from and give specific information about special touches that give it a personal signature. Indicate which Journal newspaper you receive.

Duplicate entries will be considered on the basis of earlier entry or best compliance with rules. Contest winners may enter again six months after their prize-winning publication date.

ZUCCHINI APPETIZERS

½ cup (2 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
3 tsp. chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 egg
1 tsp. salt
Pinch pepper
1 cup prepared baking mix
Oil
Grated parmesan cheese

Mix together zucchini, cheddar cheese, parsley, garlic, egg, salt, pepper and baking mix.

Heat oil in skillet. Fry zucchini mixture by large tablespoonful about 1 minute on each side until golden brown. Drain on paper towels.

Serve hot with sprinkle of parmesan cheese on top.

KEEP ONIONS SWEET

Put fresh onions in a loosely woven bag or crate so air circulates well. Store in a cool, dark, dry, well-ventilated place.

Do not refrigerate until the onion is cut, then place it in a plastic bag or plastic bowl in the refrigerator where it can be covered and kept several days. Chopped onion can be placed in a shallow pan and frozen, then put loosely into a jar or plastic container from which it can be scooped as needed.

POSTAL NOTES

Getting there is half the battle.

Of the 177 billion pieces of mail handled annually, nearly 5 billion are addressed incorrectly. They become what the U.S. Postal Service calls UAA–Undeliverable As Addressed.

You can help us keep your mail out of this predicament by using a complete current mailing address: printed clearly, with standard street suffixes, directionals like "east" or "west", apartment/suite numbers, a standard street abbreviation, a full nine-digit ZIP+4 code and, of course, your own complete return address in the top left corner of the envelope.

If you move, you can get a useful Mover's Guide from your local post office. The guide includes an official Change of Address Form. Once you complete this form, the Postal Service will forward your mail to your new address.

Incidentally, handling UAA mail costs the Postal Service about $1.5 billion a year. So addressing your mail correctly is one of those rare situations that helps you and helps us at the same time. First, it gets your mail where it's going promptly. Second, it saves us some money, which helps keep U.S. Postal Service rates among the lowest of any industrialized nation.

BAC's Fall Discovery Series to feature history

Stories of American history and the personal challenges that we all face highlight the four theatrical productions of Belleville Area College's Fall Discovery Series.

The Discovery Series, a set of educational and entertainment programs designed for children ages 8-12 and their families, is scheduled throughout the fall.

The series was designed to provide the same type of educational entertainment as the Children's Series, but for older children, said David Paeth, director of the Office of College Activities.

The Discovery Series lineup includes "Bingham's Missouri," presented by Young Audiences of St. Louis on Sept. 28; "In Her Own Right," presented by the Muny Student Theatre on Oct. 19;, "Hush: An Interview With America," presented by Metro Theatre Company on Nov. 9; and "The George Washington Follies," by Face to Face Productions on Dec. 7.

All performances will be at 6:30 p.m. in the Belleville Campus Theatre, 2500 Carlyle Road.

Season tickets for the Discovery Series are $10 each. All children must be accompanied by an adult. Seating is limited and orders will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

"Bingham's Missouri" tells the story of American artist George Caleb Bingham through folk music, narrative, dance and more than 250 slides of his drawings and paintings. This show provides and entertaining lesson about local history and life on the Mississippi River before the Civil War.

In the musical, "In Her Own Right" two young girls learn more about their heritage when they discover their grandmother had been a suffragette. It celebrates the heritage of American women. The Muny Student Theatre, which has been touring for 16 years, is the educational outreach program of the Muny Opera of St. Louis.

"Hush: An Interview With America" by James Still is about the personal growth of a 12-year-old girl growing up in small-town America.

For more information about the Discover Series, contact the Office of College Activities at 235-2700, extension 205, or toll-free in Illinois at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 205.
